Data as at 8:00am. Change from previous trading day (excluding the SFE which is the change during the night session). Source: Bloomberg.

Main Themes: The Yellen nomination. Progress on the transition of the US administration. Good news on vaccines.

Share Markets: Despite the trauma of COVID-19, US and European equities moved higher. The Dow finally reached 30,000, rising 1.5% overnight. The S&P500 was also up 1.5% also setting a record high. The Nasdaq flirted with record high and was up 1.3%.

In Europe, the FTSE100 rose 1.6% while the Dax was up 1.3%.

Interest Rates: US 10-year government bond yields rose 3 basis points to 0.88% while their Australian equivalent was up 5 basis points to 0.89%. The shorter end of the yield curve was little changed in Australia and the US.

Foreign Exchange: The US dollar index slipped to 92.2 from 92.5. The AUD subsequently rose to an overnight high of 0.7368 and sits close to that level at the open. The NZD firmed against the USD as the prospect of lower New Zealand interest rates diminished as the NZ government sought to add house price stability to its Reserve Bank's remit.

Commodities: The price of oil continues to rise in US dollar terms with West Texas Intermediate crude now above US$44 per barrel. Gold was weaker but copper continues to climb.

COVID-19: Queensland will reopen its borders to Sydneysiders from December 1. The decision comes after NSW achieved more than 28 days without local transmissions. Today, Victoria is expected to reach the same milestone. Should this occur, Victorians will also be allowed into Queensland from December 1.

Australia: The Victorian 2020-21 State Budget was released yesterday. It has a projected deficit of $23.3bn in 2020-21 following a deficit of $6.5bn in 2019-20. The State will invest $6bn in housing initiatives and $3.8bn in regional road and rail upgrades.

New Zealand: The NZ government has requested the Reserve Bank of New Zealand consider adding stability of house prices to its remit.

United States: US President Trump has ordered his administrative team to initiate the formal transition of power to President-elect Biden despite still challenging the results in court.

The S&P CoreLogic 20-city house price index rose 6.6% over the 12 months to September, up from 5.3% in the year to August.

Consumer confidence in the US slipped on virus concerns with the Conference Board index falling from 100.9 in October to 96.1 in November.

The Richmond Fed's survey of manufacturing fell in November, from a record high of 29 in October, to 15, suggesting a slowdown in growth momentum within the manufacturing sector.

New York Fed President, John Williams said the Federal Reserve's bond-buying program is serving its purpose well, although it could be adjusted if required. St Louis Fed President James Bullard offered similar comments overnight.
